IS CONVICTED.

George E. Cornell, Recently Released from Sing Sing, Will Scon Return.

TRIED TO SHIELD OTHERS.

Veteran Coiner Swore on the Stand that He Alone Was Guilty and Jury Disagreed as to the Wilsons.

George E. Cornell, said by the Secret Service agents to be one of the nost perservering makers of spurious coin in the country, was again convicted of counterfeiting this morning in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit Court.

Cornell was tried with W. H. Wilon and Maggie Wilson, in whose rom in Delancey street he was arrested, and with whom he had been living since his release from Sing Sing a few weeks before, where he ervd a three years' term of imprison-

The jury convicting Cornell failed to agree as to the guilt of Wilson and his wife the foreman informing the Court that they stood six to six, with no possible hope of reaching any other conclusion. Judge Thomas then said that he would have them re-tried at once, and set Thursday next as the date for the trial.

Coin Concealed in Clothes.

The trio were arrested by Detective Sergt. Peobody, of Police Headquarters He found in the room, concealed in a bureau drawer under Mrs. Wilson's clothing, a large quantity of counterfeit coin newly made. In a coal-bucket hidden under some coal, the officer found the ladle in which the base metawas heated and from which it was poured into the moulds. Of the latter, nine, made of plaster of paris, wer ound in the room.

Despite this fact, Cornell took the stand and endeavored to exonerate the Wisons. He swore that he alone made the counterfeit money during such times as they were absent from the room looking for work and that they had no knowledge whatever of the existence of the moulds and spurious coin in the Disagreed as to Wilsons.

As a result of Cornell's confession the jury easily reached a conclusion as to his guilt, but although Judge Thomas kept them out all night they failed to come to a unanimous conclusion concerning the Wilsons. The foreman said they stood 6 to 6 on the first vote taken yesterday afternoon, and 6 to 6 on the last ballot this morning.

Cornell is grey-headed and has served several terms for counterfeiting. He is probably fifty years old. Neither Wilson nor his wife are more than twenty-five.

Grandfather Secures Boy in Dispute Between Father and Mother.

ACCUSED OF KIDNAPPING

Police Say, However, that They Will Not Arrest Him as They Believe He Has a Legal Right to the Lad.

The headquarters of the police in Broklyn were visited last Saturday night by Mrs. Ida Jacobs, who gave her address as No. 107 Cooper street, Brooklyn, and who exhibited a telegram she had received from Portland, Ore. The message read

"Dolly's boy has been stolen. He was taken aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm, which left Bremen the 17th and is due in New York the 24th. Get power of attorney and secure him through the police." The telegram was signed by Richard Knoll. Mrg. Jacobs explained to Inspector Cullen that Mr. Knoll was the brother of Mrs. Theodore Kruse, who was the Dolly referred to in the despatch. She said that last September Mr. Knoll. Mrs Kruse and the boy, Richard, aged eight, had come to New York from Portland and had sailed for Oldenburg, eGrmany. Mrs. Kruse had ha some trouble with her husband. Mrs. Kruse and the boy remained in Germany, but Mr. Knoll returned to Portland.

Grandfather Took Boy.

Meanwhile the father of the boy had given a power of attorney to his father, D. J. Kruse, turning the care of the boy over to him until young Richard should attain the age of twenty-one. Armed with this, D. J. Kruse followed the boy and his mother to Germany, where all the parties met.

On the 17th inst., it is said, Mr. Kruse the elder said to Mrs. Kruse, "Let me take your boy out into the country for the day," to which she agreed, but in-stead of ding this the grandfather took the boy on the Kronprinz Wilhelm and set sail for this country. The two took passage in the second cabin under their own names, and there was no concealment. When Mrs. Kruse found out the deception that had been practised she cabled her brother, Mr. Noll, in Port-land, Ore., who in turn wired Mrs. Jacobs in an effort to head off the grandfather and the boy on their arrival here.

When the Kronprinz steamed into her ock this morning Mr. D. J. Kruse and ittle Richard were found on board. In nswer to inquiries Mr. Kruse exhibited power of attorney purporting to have been signed by the boy's father, giving tim the care of the boy, which was witnessed by F. J. Dunbar, Secretary of the State of Oregon, and by Charles schnabel, a notary public. The document was lated May 13, 1902.

Wished to Go to Father.

Wished to Go to Father.

The boy, a very bright little fellow, who spoke both German and English fluently, seemed to be perfectly happy with his grandfather and to acquiesce in the proceedings. In answer to a question as to whether he wished to go to his father, he said "Yes." In answer to another question as to whether his mother had not treated him properly, he said his mother was good to him, but Detective Sergeants Moody and Lee-on were on the dock. They said they and received orders not to arrest D. J. Kruse, as the authorities were satisfied that the grandfather had a legal right to the custody of the boy.
